

MEET THE EXECUTIVE

New year, new LAWSOC exec, and you know what that means - new exec bios! Yeap, we've been saving this one up for a while, and in typical Obiter fashion, these were all written mere days before the deadline. In any case, you can expect these exec bios to be sprinkled with Obiter's characteristic seasonings of caricature and pasquinade. In all sincerity, our fellow execs are a special bunch that will do special things this year. We have no higher form of praise to give other than to say that this year's exec is more stacked than a game of rage cage!

Because this year is a special year, we wanted to make special exec bios to match. And so instead of the usual two pages of exec bios, this year you get three! To introduce the LAWSOC exec for 2023, we asked each member the following three questions;

1. What is your favourite LAWSOC event?
2. What is your own intrinsic red flag?
3. Who would you want to play you in a movie about your life?

The answers follow; results may vary...

Lily Sawyer - President

Lily will be donning the LAWSOC jersey for her fourth consecutive year. From one half of the first ever Second Year Reps, to being a budding Education and Welfare Officer, before a year at VP as the right hand woman, Lily Sawyer takes the helm in 2023. It is our pleasure to serve you El Presidente!

- 1) Lily's favourite LAWSOC event is Lawn Bowls 2020. She tells us it's because she was told it was a great event x
- 2) Inability to refrain from DMing Bart Johnson on Instagram.
- 3) Bart Johnson.

Connie Wynn-Williams - Vice President

As Madame VP this year Connie will run the infamous Law Camp. Having led her team to victory at Law Camp last year, Connie not only proved that girls can skull, but that she is someone who always Wynns no matter what!

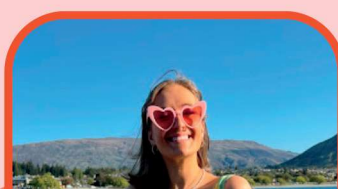

- 1) Connie's favourite LAWSOC event is Law Ball 2019. The only food was candy floss and it was an open bar, you can do the maths.
- 2) Picks arguments for fun and never believes she's wrong.
- 3) Due to his excellent performance in Law Revue 2022 through his multiple skits, the one and only George Brougham #redteamforever

Tobias van Woerkom - Treasurer

Welcome to LAWSOC's accounting department, population one, where everybody counts. Quite possibly the toughest job on the LAWSOC exec, it's a very taxing role. Tobias has some big shoes (and tight shirts) to fill this year. Given his speech at last year's AGM. We absolutely cannot wait for his Treasurer report in August.

- 1) Tobias' favourite LAWSOC event is Law Revue. It's all about being out of your comfort zone and making lifelong friends while doing it.
- 2) Shorts x RM's combo.
- 3) Jeremy Wells. Maybe if you got a haircut, Tobes.

Nellie Evison - Revue Producer

Nellie shares many similarities with her predecessor. An impressive vocal range, incredible stage presence, and above all - a

- 1) Nellie's favourite LAWSOC event is Law Revue. There would probably be a bounty on her head if it wasn't. Whether it's your first or fourth time it's always

Stefano Viettone-Smithson - Education and Welfare Officer

Who let the dogs out? Who? Who, who? Who, who? If you're looking for the answer to this age old question. We're pretty sure we've got it. Look no further than Obiter's most learned friend - Stefano. He is a consummate professional, and the epitome of a man's best friend. Stefano is a huge advocate for mental health, and can't wait to run this year's wellbeing initiatives. You might say they are the perfect remedy for when you're having a ruff day.

- 1) Stefano's favourite LAWSOC event is Law Revue. It's a chance to push the boundaries and get out of your comfort zone, whilst also getting to know like minded law students.
- 2) Strange obsession for yardies.
- 3) Jonah Hill (War Dogs persona specifically). Presumably because Stefano got the dog in him.

Asta Hinton - Education and Welfare Officer

Asta is known for being quietly competent, meaning she is a) talented, and b) humble about it. If you think that's a strange combination for a law student, then you'd be right. Asta is actually an honours student, but you wouldn't know because she genuinely never mentions it. She is the embodiment of truth and wisdom, and will be a huge asset to LAWSOC this year.

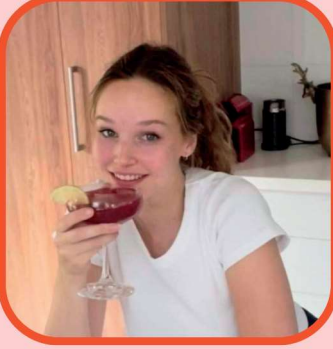

- 1) Asta's favourite LAWSOC event is Law Revue. It's a great way to meet a bunch of awesome people and get you out of your comfort zone.
- 2) She still does Snapchat streaks.
- 3) Reese Witherspoon. Who wouldn't want to be played by the iconic legal lady herself?

George Brougham - Social Officer

King George's reign on the LAWSOC exec continues for another year. Have you ever seen a King do a shoey? Come to Law Ball, and we guarantee that you will. King George is loved by all his loyal subjects and we have no problem saying that he is the jewel in the crown of the LAWSOC exec this year. God save the King!

- 1) George's favourite LAWSOC event is Law Camp. It's always fun sending it on the first night. It's not so fun waking up the next morning knowing that your weekend is FAR from over.
- 2) George is such a good actor that he was cast as a footstool in last year's Law Revue.
- 3) Harriet Kennelly. The only wounder fit enough to play such a monumental role.

Madeleine Tutty - Social Officer

From a King, to a Queen. Never has someone been more perfect for an exec role than our dearest Madeleine as LAWSOC Social Officer. Having climbed the exec ladder once already. We can't wait to see where this social butterfly goes once she spreads her wings this year!

- 1) Madeleine's favourite LAWSOC event is Lawn Bowls 2022. Made special because her younger brother was in attendance. In typical Tutty tradition, he also f*cked out at his first LAWSOC event.
- 2) She only takes cold showers. Make of that what you will.
- 3) Jennifer Aniston. Her whole life is a rom-com.

Nathan Collins - Competitions Officer

If we know anything about Nathan, and if we're being honest there's not much else to know, it's that he loves comps. So much so, in fact, he'll chew your ear off for hours talking about them. If you're coming to Launch Night (which you definitely should), be warned.

- 1) Staying true to his roots. Nathan's favourite LAWSOC event is the negotiations competition. Did you know that he went to Australia and represented UC internationally? Neither did we.
- 2) Nathan lives his life 18 holes at a time. For those ten hours or less he's free.
- 3) Tom Holland. A handsome, athletic Brit, who barely looks old enough for town despite nearly being 30. Sounds about right.

Harriet Kennelly - Competitions Officer

Harriet is a 'vegetarian', although the 7 sausages she was spotted eating at Garden Party suggests otherwise. She will do her

- 1) Harriet's favourite LAWSOC event is Law Ball. It's such a great excuse to dress up, and an even better excuse to get a bit silly!

Editorial note: When we asked all our exec what their own intrinsic red flags were, most responded with just one. What we can only imagine is precedent for the year ahead. Oscar provided us with a list of red flags, while Georgia failed to provide one at all. It's like deja vu.

Oscar Bloom - Second Year Rep

Say you went to a private school without saying you went to a private school.

- 1) Oscar's favourite LAWSOC event is Law Revue. It's an awesome introduction for someone who hasn't been exposed to LAWSOC and wants to see what all the fuss is about.
- 2) There were A LOT to choose from. However, mouthing off before finding a bigger friend to take the punch takes the cake x
- 3) Timothee Chalamet.

Georgia Lassen -Second Year Rep

If you look up 'head girl' in the dictionary, you'll probably find a photo of Georgia. Having ruled the roost at St Margaret's, before a stint at LAWSOC's breeding ground (RnR), she is the quintessential second year rep and she'll be sure to greet you with a warm smile if you see her around campus.

1) Georgia's favourite LAWSOC event is Law Revue. As a speech and drama teacher she has always been into the arts, and loves every aspect of revue.

2) Much as it irks us to say. We only have nice things to say about Georgia. As any law student knows to say when they have no idea what to write - more information is needed.

3) Anne Hathaway.

Eliana Troiani - Promotions Officer

Eliana will be the first to tell you she's a perfectionist. But, as the saying goes, Rome wasn't built in a day, and neither are LAWSOC's promotional materials. All jokes aside, her insatiable passion for design can only be a good thing for us!

1) Eliana's favourite LAWSOC event is Law Revue. It's heaps of fun, and a great way of meeting amazing people who become some of your closest mates.

2) Coffee is her favourite meal.

3) Benedetta Porcaroli. Yeap, Eliana is Italian, but you'd never know because she never mentions it.

Molly Macgregor - Promotions Officer

Molly is well versed in the attributes of Mercy, meaning she will show great compassion when you message the LAWSOC accounts with stupid questions that even a two year old (or engineer) could figure out.

1) Molly's favourite LAWSOC event is Law Revue. It's truly a highlight of your time at law school. It is, however, advised you do not get covid in the first week. That would really suck, wouldn't it?

2) Molly is a very positive person, and by that we mean, she can't go two weeks without getting covid.

3) The Briscoes lady... hopefully for 50% off.

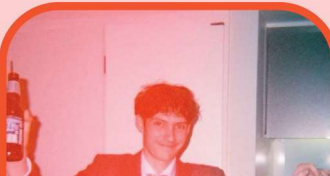

Isaiah Ong - Obiter Editor

If you recognise Isaiah it's probably because his face has been plastered all over bus stops and billboards around the country this year. Here's hoping he keeps his (size 7) feet on the ground this year.

1) Isaiah's favourite LAWSOC event is any event with domino's pizza... which is all of them.

2) Desperately wishes he was studying engineering.

3) Micah Richards. Much like Big Meeks, the Ongbudsman burst onto the scene. At 18 one was playing for England while the other was on the LAWSOC exec.

Oliver Fradd - Obiter Editor

With his fifth year at university being his first year involved with LAWSOC,

1) Oliver's favorite LAWSOC event is the cocktail night; he works in hospitality by the way!

2) Is from Britain and has thinning hair
